Dear Development Industry Stakeholder,

Re: City of West Kelowna Development Cost Charges Inflation Adjustment 2024

This letter is to provide information to stakeholders about the upcoming amendments to the Development Cost Charges (DCC) Bylaw 0190.01, specifically a minor increase of 3.9% to the DCC's is proposed based on the average British Columbia Consumer Price Index (CPI) inflation for 2023.

DCC's are levied from most new developments to provide funding for growth related infrastructure upgrades, expansions, and acquisitions. Development costs are charged per lot, per dwelling unit, or per square meter of new development, for services such as drainage, parks, roads, sewer, and water, as established under the City of West Kelowna's Development Cost Charges Bylaw No. 0190.01. The most recent Bylaw was adopted by Council on August 23, 2022.

The DCC Best Practices Guide of BC recommends that "minor amendments to the DCC Bylaws should be made annually to reflect changes in construction costs, land values, and the status of government grants." BC's community charter (B.C. Reg. 130/2010) permits local governments to increase DCC's annually allowing modest adjustments in a timely manner without approval by the province if the increase does not exceed the annual average CPI.

As outlined in the City of West Kelowna 2022 DCC Background Report, the City should allow for smaller and more frequent increases to avoid waiting several years and having significant jumps in the DCC's. The process is relatively straight forward and can be done by having Council adopt an amendment to the DCC Bylaw. Once the Bylaw amendment is adopted by Council, any new development will be subject to the increased DCC's, while in-stream applications will have a 12-month grace period before the new DCC's apply. The 2024 DCC adjustment is proposed to be presented at Council in March 2024.

The updated DCC totals can be found in Schedule A attached to this letter.

Additional information about the 2022 DCC review process, Bylaws, and the DCC 20-year program can be found on the City's website at www.westkelownacity.ca/dcc.

Sincerely,

Bob Dargatz, P.Eng
